Coalition Elects Lowry Student Congress President

Progressive Party Takes Dominant Congress Position

● FIRMLY ENTRENCHED in a dominant position in the Student Congress, the Progressive Party, one of the weaker parties last year, may rule a three-party Congress this year as a result of elections held Wednesday night at the first meeting of the school year.

Roy Lowry, chairman of that party last year, triumphed in his candidacy for the post of president on the third ballot. No majority had been reached by the evenly matched candidates on the two previous ballots. Charles Coker, an Independent, nominated by the Liberal Democratic Party, and Joseph C. Coker, Farmer-Labor Party nominee, were the other presidential aspirants, who were frozen out by a Progressive and Farmer-Laborite coalition on the last ballot.

No Democrats on Council

In the election for executive council positions, the Progressives three, Farmer-Laborites and two Independents were victorious. The Progressives supported Robert Ryerson, Betty Green and Clara Brasel of the Farmer-Laborites besides their own candidates for the executive council. Farmer-Laborites likewise supported the three Progressive nominees, Ray L. Lofitz, Paul McClenon and Daniel Fustel. Abe Simon and Charles Coker, both Independents, were also elected to the council.

Late last week Lowry announced the appointment of Michael McKool as parliamentary, Stuart Russell as president pro tempore, and John Strong as publicity director. McKool, Russell and Strong are Liberal Democrats.

Congress membership this year is divided among the parties as follows: Liberal Democrats, 14; Progressives, 11; Farmer-Laborites, 11, and Independents, 3.

Elections Differ This Year

This year's elections were different from those of 1938. Last year each student in the University was asked to vote for the party whose platform most nearly coincided with his opinions. One hundred seats were awarded among the parties in the Congress in proportion to the number of votes they polled.

The new constitution of the Congress provides that any student of the University is eligible for membership upon payment of the $1 membership fee. Voting privileges are now accorded only members of the Congress. This eliminates the influence of outside interests in elections.

In the 1938 elections it developed that the Progressive Party's votes provided the margin of victory for Everett Bellows, Farmer-Labor nominee. This year the situation was reversed.

Democrats Lose Power

Another reversal over last year is the status of the Liberal Democrats. In the student body poll they garnered 41 per cent of the votes, and a combination of nearly every other party in the Congress was required to defeat them in the elections. Without a member of their party on the executive council and no such plurality on the floor as they had last year, they will be comparatively weak.

Wednesday's program was opened by Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, who first stated his position.

Hoya Editors Predict 3 Wins For Georgetown

● GEORGETOWN is expecting a series of three victories in the representatives of the rival university told the Hatchet editors as they marched into the Hatchet office Sunday night.

"We expect to win the varsity game, the freshman football game, and the 'glamor boy' John Dwyer, editor of The Hoya declared. The 'glamor boy' contest referred to as the one in which a popular male student from each of the local colleges was chosen to go out with Ann Rutherford tonight. "We'll back our glamor boy against yours any day," they said (adding that he was beautiful).

As to the game—"an easy 21-to-7 victory," they declared—or rather Dwyer declared. The other two sort of nodded hesitantly. More exactly, they said, "In confining ourselves, we'll win by two touchdowns, or 21 to 7."

Their reply to the open letter to the Hoyas written by John Daugherty, Student Council President, and printed in the Hatchet last week, will be released in their paper.

Tickets Going Fast For Hoya Game

● A STUDENT cheering section has been reserved on the 50-yard line for the game of the year, that against Georgetown next Saturday afternoon at Griffith Stadium.

These choice tickets can be purchased at the Comptroller's Office, Corcoran Hall, 9 to 5, every day this week, and until noon Saturday. Many good seats in sections R, S and T were available (last Saturday) at $1.50 each, but this supply is rapidly diminishing. Upper grandstand seats are on sale at $2.20 each, and general admission tickets for the bleacher section at $1.10 each.

The heavy demand indicates that these tickets will be at a premium by Friday evening. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Pool Sharks Miss Their Arbitrator

By ABE SIMON

● WHEN A "KIBITZER" admits that a kibitzer exerts a "whole-some effect on the game" that makes news.

So when Dean Mitchell Dreese, one of the "kibitzers", paid the above compliment to Charles Wendell Holmes, chief kibitzer of the University faculty "Pool-Room Gang" and also Comptroller of the University, questions immediately arose.

How did Chief Kibitzer Holmes acquire his title? Why do the pool players in the Faculty Club enjoy being kibitzed by their C. K.?

Ardent Pool Players

The answers to both these questions lie in the fact that there is a sizeable faculty contingent of ardent pool players. Playing both Bottle Pool and Alabama, professors from several departments gather during their spare time in the afternoon and enjoy a few games in the pool room on the top floor of the Faculty Club.

Chief Kibitzer Holmes, who "appreciates good pool and detests 'sloppy shooting,'" according to members of the "gang," does not play with the others, but takes great delight in following the play carefully and making appropriate remarks and observations.

Chair for the Chief

To reward their faithful observer, the Pool Room Gang decided to get their C. K. an appropriate chair. A tall, armchair was obtained and properly inscribed with the legend "CHAS. W. HOLMES, C. K."

"Behind the Eight Ball"

Presentation of the chair was made with due ceremony, and the members of the "Gang" stood at attention with upraised cues. In front of the chair, the "Gang" had placed a stand with an 8 ball resting on it. This definitely put him behind the 8 ball, they maintained. The chair has not been occupied by the C. K. recently because he has been ill since the beginning of the semester. It still stands there and the "Pool Room Gang" impatiently waits for Chief Kibitzer Holmes to return and again take up his duties during pool-playing hours.

● Text of the letter mailed by the Pool Room Gang to Chief Kibitzer Holmes:

September 28, 1939
Dear Mr. Holmes:
Now that the school year is getting underway the pool room gang has again assembled and hottie pool

Phi Alpha Delta Will Initiate Solicitor General

Robert Jackson

● THE HONORABLE ROBERT JACKSON, Solicitor General of the United States, will be initiated into membership in the University chapter of Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity at ceremonies to be held at the Carlton Hotel Friday evening.

Associate Justice, William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court will be the principal speaker at the banquet which will follow the initiation ceremonies.

Many distinguished alumni of Phi Alpha Delta, including members of the bench and bar, members of Congress and legal officers of the Federal Government are expected to attend. Among them are former Attorney General Homer Cummings; Wiley Rutledge, Justice of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; Senators Barkley, of Kentucky; Pepper, of Florida; Tydings, of Maryland; and Lucas, of Illinois; Chairman Madden of the National Labor Relations Board; Bolan B. Turner, of the Board of Tax Appeals; Chairman Freer, of the Federal Trade Commission; Commissioner Alcheson of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Officers of the John Jay Chapter who will conduct the initiation of Solicitor General Jackson are: William Traxler, Justice; John Coggin, Vice-Judge; Jim Snedeker, Secretary; Don Banks, Treasurer; Allan Foss, Marshal.

The John Jay Chapter was founded at the University Law School on

Sweetheart Will Be Crowned At Homecoming Ball, Nov. 4

Decorating Contest Arouses Rivalry Between Fraternities

● A CUP WILL BE OFFERED for the best decorated house, according to the rules of the fraternity house decoration contest, announced Lester A. Smith, homecoming committee secretary. The rules are as follows:

1. All exterior decorations must include the phrase: "George Washington University Homecoming," or its equivalent.
2. All decorations must be up by 6 p.m. Thursday, November 2, and will be judged that evening.
3. In judging the decorations, the following points will be considered: (a) collegiate characteristics; (b) originality and ingenuity.

As part of the Homecoming program, the Riding Club of the University will sponsor a horse show which is to be held on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4, at the Equitation field in Rock Creek Park. The show will be in honor of the alumni, and one of the features which promises to be of particular interest to this university is the horsemanship class, open only to students and alumni of the University.

In addition to this, there will be five other classes in which the alumni and students of the University will be eligible to participate. Other universities and schools in the city have already been invited to have their students enter the show.

The program is as follows:
Horsemanship—for George Washington students and alumni only.
Jumping—jumps not to exceed 3½ feet; for students of any school.
Bridle Path Hack—open to anyone.
Jumping—jumps not to exceed 3 feet, open to anyone.
Hack pairs—open to anyone.

Those who are interested in competing in the show are urged to do so. There will be no charge for entering, and all entries will be made at the post. The show is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock.

The Lather Club announces that as part of its reception and luncheon at the Columbian House on Sunday, Nov. 5, it will have a reception and luncheon at the Columbian House on Sunday, Nov. 5.

Dan Gregory

Dan Gregory's Band Will Furnish Music; Tickets on Sale Now

● DAN GREGORY and his Victor Recording Orchestra have been chosen to provide music for the Third Annual Homecoming Ball, Nov. 4, from 10 to 12 at the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel.

It is at this time that the identity of the Homecoming Queen will be revealed and she will be crowned amid appropriate ceremonies and a special Homecoming Queen's cup will be presented her by George Neville, chairman of the Homecoming Committee.

Rules for choosing the queen as formulated by the Homecoming Committee, working in close collaboration with the Panhellenic Council, are as follows:

1. Voting by Student Activity Book will take place in the Student Club Nov. 2, 12-1 p.m.; 5-5:30 p.m.; Friday, Nov. 3, 12-1 p.m.; 5-5:30 p.m.
2. Those who buy tickets to the Homecoming Ball may vote at the ball Saturday, Nov. 4, from 10:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. A couple ticket is good for two votes and a stag ticket for one vote.
3. Each ticket is accompanied by a stub which may be voted by the person selling the ticket. The stub of the complete ticket is good for two votes and the stag ticket for one vote. Vote in the Alumni Office.
4. All tickets will be counted by the Alumni Secretary, Lester A. Smith.
5. Note: In order to insure scrupulousness in selling tickets, no tickets will be issued to fraternities to sell until 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 26.
6. The established price of the tickets are $2.50 for a couple ticket, and $1.75 for a stag ticket. However, until 5 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 2, tickets will be sold at the following prices: $1.75 for a couple ticket and $1.25 for a stag ticket.

Each sorority and fraternity on the campus has been asked to name a patron and patroness for the Homecoming Ball. To date the following names have been received: Kappa Kappa Gamma, Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh Gilchrist; Phi Mu, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Christy; Alpha Delta, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith.

Members of the Board of Trustees of the University have been asked to act as supporting patrons to the ball. Mr. Clarence A. Aspinwall, Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat, Mr. Theodore W. Noyes, Dr. and Mrs. Luther Reichelderfer, and Dr. Harry C. Davis and his sister, Miss Molly Davis, have accepted so far. Others will be announced later.

The pre-game rally will take place in the University parking lot at 8 p.m., Nov. 2. Featured will be a tug-of-war between the Freshman and Sophomore Clubs. There will be a speech by the line coach of the University, Botchey Koch. A new feature will be the lighting of a gigantic bonfire.

Between-the-halves ceremonies of the Clemson-George Washington game will include a marching exhibition by the Clemson Senior Drill Platoon and entertainment by the George Washington Band. The Clemson Drill Platoon consists of 65 of the best-drilled seniors.

War Changes Lives Of Grads In Europe

● THE WAR HAS MADE 1939 a never-to-be-forgotten year for the 60 University graduates living in Europe. Whether diplomat, consular agent, or private citizen, the even tenor of their lives has undergone rapid readjustment.

Wilbur J. Carr, American Minister to Czechoslovakia, and dean in years of the European alumni, saw the government to which he was assigned, incorporated in the zone of German influence early this year. He closed the legation in March. He and Mrs. Carr began an extended automobile tour of Western Europe, but returned to the United States on the outbreak of hostilities. Mr. Carr received the master of law degree in 1899, and the doctor of law in 1925. Minister Carr reached the retirement age in October, concluding a notable career in the foreign service.

Hugh G. Grant, American Minister to Albania, and Mrs. Grant were the only American citizens in Tirana, when Italian troops entered in April. Although the legality of the occupation was not recognized by the United States government, the legation was ordered closer by the State Department. Mr. and Mrs. Grant arrived in Washington from Italy on Oct. 16, after a dangerous crossing. Mr. Grant received the master of arts degree in 1931.

H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American Minister to Finland, is at his post in Helsinki, but Mrs. Schoenfeld and their two children, who were vacationing in Connecticut when the war began, are living in Washington until transportation facilities are improved. Mr. Schoenfeld received his bachelor of arts degree in 1907, and his master of arts degree in 1908.

The German invasion of Poland brought heavy responsibilities, as well as great danger to Maurice W. Blake, American Vice-Consul at Warsaw. After other citizens had been evacuated, Consul Blake and

Bulletin Board Romeo Fails As Juliet Balks

● BOY ALMOST met girl via bulletin board correspondence last week, but girl didn't find it convenient so she asked boy to meet the University lost and found department instead.

Louise Krueger lost a pair of maroon gloves a week ago last Friday. John Bond, sometime thereafter, found a pair of maroon gloves.

John, evidently in the "boy-meets-girl" mood, posted the following notice on the Building D bulletin board.

"FOUND—1 pair maroon gloves. If blonde or brunette apply to John Bond. First table from peanuts. Student Club. 6:10 p.m., M., T., W., F."

Louise saw the notice Wednesday evening. A brunette, she preferred not to take up the invitation. She posted the following announcement.

"LOST—1 pair of maroon gloves. If found, please turn them in to the Lost and Found Department of G. W. Louise Krueger."

As a brunette went to press, Louise had not yet met John, nor recovered her gloves.

Joint Victory Ball At Shoreham Hotel Will Precede First Colonial-Hoya Grid Contest In Sixteen Years

● READY TO DISH OUT RHYTHM for the unprecedented Victory Ball Friday night at the Shoreham Hotel is Watson Powell and his Orchestra, with Ruth McCullough as featured vocalist. The Orchestra is under the management of Jack Morton. University students will get to meet their rivals against the soothing background of Watson Powell's music before the intense game of the next day. And maybe with the resumption of athletic relations, more joint social events will be arranged.

Capacity Crowd Will Witness Buff-Hoya Game

● COACH BILL REINHART will rely on a seasoned squad of veterans and sophomore reserves to stop a favored Georgetown eleven when the Colonials take the field next Saturday afternoon in an attempt to stop the Hoya winning streak at 12 straight. A capacity crowd will jam Griffith Stadium to watch the two keen local rivals clash on the gridiron for the first time since 1923. The kickoff will be at 2:30 p.m.

Georgetown will be heavily favored to keep their winning streak intact, and also will be out to keep their slate clean against the Buff and Blue, who has never won a gridiron decision over the Blue and Gray. In the ten games played in the past, Georgetown has won nine and was held to a scoreless tie in 1907. The Hoyas won the last game between the two universities, 20 to 0 in 1923.

Nowaskey, Jones Named Captains
Coach Bill Reinhart has been pointing for this all-important game all season, and will have a spirited eleven ready to "shoot the works" in an attempt to score a much desired victory over a high-flying Hill-top squad. Sunny Jones, burly 210-pound right tackle, and Bob Nowaskey, husky 190-pound right end, have been selected as co-captains for this game by Reinhart.

Both elevens were unimpressive in their last game, each winning by the identical score of 13 to 7, and

Cinema Starlet Meets Man-about-Campus

● USUALLY JOE COLLEGE (and the rest of the populace) go to see a movie queen. But now comes the reverse—a cinema starlet comes to see Joe College.

Ann Rutherford, attractive M-G-M budding star, now appearing in person on the stage of Loew's Capitol Theatre, is spending one evening of her week here touring the local night spots with the cream of collegiate manpower—one from each of the local universities. Maryland, Catholic University, American University and Georgetown University will each send a young hopeful to contest with Wayne Kniffin, prominent University man-about-campus, for the attentions of the charming visitor from afar.

The tour will be under the guidance of Loew's local theatre manager, who secured the candidate through the cooperation of the respective university newspapers, and will start off at the Carlton Hotel. Mr. Kniffin got away to a head start by means of an interview with Miss Rutherford Saturday afternoon just before her mid-afternoon appearance on the stage of the Capitol. Accompanied by a photographer and a reporter to record the momentous occasion, he was taken backstage, through a maze of properties, door-keepers, autograph seekers, chorus girls and stagehands, up to the dressing room marked by a three-foot cardboard star—there to be graciously received by the starlet and her mother.

Visibly impressed, Kniffin later said, "She isn't affected by either her professional success or the press."

Both Campuses Will Celebrate at Dance Night Before Game

● GEORGETOWN and Georgetown Universities will join in holding a "Victory Ball" on the eve of the first football game between the two schools in 16 years. The dance will be held in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel Friday night, Nov. 3, and will be attended by some 600 students from the two universities. The game will be played the next day at Griffith Stadium.

Last minute arrangements for the dance were made at a special meeting of the Student Council of the University, where it was decided to secure Jack Morton's orchestra. The Victory Dance will be sponsored by the Interfraternity Council of Georgetown headed by Albert Rabida as well as by the Student Council of the University, which is under the leadership of John Daugherty.

The Student Council's Co-op Book will be honored at the Victory Ball. Fifty cents will be collected at the door from holders of Co-op books instead of $2 as originally announced; the remaining $1.50 due on the Co-op book will be collected when the book is presented for admission to the second function.

The ballroom will be decorated with banners of both schools and every indication points toward a gala affair without the customary belligerency which has marked past affairs," stated John Daugherty in a Student Council release to the

The G. W.-G. U. Game

MARKING THE RENEWAL of football relationships after sixteen years, the G. W.-Georgetown game scheduled for Saturday is bringing both the students and the team to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

The team has admittedly been pointing to this game, and evidently the students have, too. As down-town writers say, it's a "natural" for excitement and demonstrations of all sorts. This is no more than the administration and the athletic department have expected.

With the enthusiastic backing shown by the student body, and with a team ready to fight a clean, but hard game, our prospects seem good.

In addition to injecting a long-needed school spirit in the student body, the game is important to both universities from a general policy standpoint. It marks a major step of our Department of Athletics in furthering its policy of renewing relationship with neighboring institutions.

We want to win and think we will. Both teams are geared to play hard football; but both teams know that this is merely the renewing of a friendly rivalry, and win, lose, or draw, they are prepared to take it in that spirit.

We, as members of the student body, want spirit—but spirit without the dangers of mob hysteria that characterize the renewal of such an athletic rivalry.

If the student body can mix enthusiasm with cooperation, then the much-desired renewal of this relationship will justify itself and insure its continuance.

Let us hope that this game is conducted on a high plane, so that we may see inter-collegiate athletics at its best.

A Victory Ball For Football Teams

AS PART OF THE ACTIVITY centering around the much-publicized G. W.-Georgetown game, the Victory Ball, sponsored by the Student Council, is itself something of a novelty.

A co-university dance which precedes a day of intense rivalry must be something new in the way of inter-collegiate relationships. And there can certainly be no better way of celebrating victory than to celebrate it before the game and with the rival school.

A friendly overture of this sort—although, of course, there are elements of fun and rivalry in it, is one of the surest ways of dispensing with the useless damage of property that so frequently accompanies athletic rivalry. The "get-together" spirit that will be fostered in this joint dance will certainly promote the furtherance of activities, athletic and otherwise, with local universities.

The Student Council may indeed be complimented on this same way of boosting the game. It is hoped that the student body will support the dance and will support its purpose.

Homecoming Welcomes Grads

AGAIN THE UNIVERSITY is approaching the day of days, Homecoming. A committee composed of both alumni and undergraduates is working hard to make it an outstanding event of the year. With the Homecoming Ball, the election of the Homecoming Queen, and fraternity and sorority activities scheduled for the week, University graduates may be assured of a real welcome.

For many of them the University will present an entirely new front. The addition of Strong Hall, the Hall of Government, and the new Lisner Library will be a welcome sight to many of the old eyes attuned to the remodeled houses that used to make up the University.

The day when all the old grads come back and look over the old school must be a great one for them, as it is for us. It is hoped that undergraduates will try to make this the most fervent "welcome home" that University graduates have ever seen.

An Inept Student Body?

WITH ALL THE FORCE of his natural flow of language, Dean Kayser fired a tirade of words upon the heads of the small group gathered around the microphone Friday afternoon in the school yard for a "pep" rally.

In addition to other things, he called them the most "inept" phlegmatic group he had ever seen assembled for such a rally. But his words of scorn were more for those who did not attend the rally, which was well publicized by a shrieking siren some five minutes or more before it began.

The cheering, it must be admitted, even at the beginning was a great improvement over that at the rally last week (nothing could have been worse); but after Dean Kayser had finished "calling down" the "poker faced" student body, the cheering definitely increased. This small crowd, it must be said, did admirably. However, a hundred or so students out of some 8,000 is hardly enough to call even a cheering section.

Dean Kayser's speech was something this campus has needed for a long time; such a speech could only have come from one who has associated himself so with all of the vital things of campus life. A student could not have wielded the influence that Dean Kayser did Friday afternoon. It is hoped that his words will kindle a flame of enthusiasm.

"Make the Home", Says 74-Year Old Student

By PILAR N. RAYLO

MRS. ISABELLE BARNES HAGGETT, living once again up to her role of being one of the most interesting campus personalities, discussed with unusual sincerity, such inevitable present-day situations as divorce, birth control and make-up, in an interview at her apartment on Kalorama Road the other day.

"Make the home, should be the slogan of every thinking young woman of today," Mrs. Haggett began. "No matter what achievements women attain, they should always make marriage as their ultimate aim in life, for there's no ambition more worthy of a woman's name than that of raising a home and bringing up healthy and responsible children."

Strangely enough, Mrs. Haggett, who is already seventy-four, is still lithe in her movements, progressive in her ideas and adept at discussing international problems of the day. Strenuous as the work may be, she finds great pleasure in living at the University where she has enrolled in subjects that interest her most. Having been a school teacher for some time and having been married to an educator, the late George B. Haggett who died ten years ago, Mrs. Haggett's interest is in education. She intends to continue going to the University, although finishing a degree is remote from her mind.

"My household work does not interfere with my studies," she smiled as she answered our question. "My objection to working women is when they leave their children and neglect their training altogether. It is necessary that young women of today should have a certain knowledge of home economics because once they are married, they will find that it's only the tactful management of their household duties that is essential in preserving peace and harmony in the family."

"And as for divorce," she continued, "it is my opinion marital differences or difficulties should be solved in an equitable manner. Let there be a 'give and take'—a consideration for each other's feelings."

Having lived her youth at a time when make-up was unknown, Mrs. Haggett has a preference for the natural. Dressed becomingly in a long-sleeved blue silk crepe with no trace of make-up whatever, she looked naive but charming.

"I like to see young people gay and full of fun," she pointed out. "But I regret to see young ladies smoking. Much of their femininity is lost through their sophistication when they smoke their cigarettes. 'And you, yourself, I am sure, do not enjoy seeing a face which looks like a painted doll,' she challenged as the question of make-up was discussed.

At this juncture, she showed her dislike for loud lipstick, heavy rouge and painted nails. She stated that a natural beauty creates a more lasting impression than one whose beauty is acquired through make-up.

Speaking of the discipline of students during her time, she said that familiarity so prevalent in university campus today was unknown in her school days. "Girls would be severely criticized if they showed any familiarity, or feelings of camaraderie to the opposite sex," Mrs. Haggett recollected. "Girl students were aloof and were not as active in athletics as they are today."

Shifting our topic of discussion on international problems of today, she said that one of her aims in her observations is to study the underlying cause of the whole European situation. She believes that if the war lasts a long time, the United States might be eventually led into it. And she is also of the opinion that Japan, being the aggressor in the Far East, may further her activities and become the world power in the whole Eastern Hemisphere.

Mrs. Haggett loves good music. She recollected with pride the happiness she had while she used to play the piano accompaniments to her husband who had a good singing voice. And gardening is so much a part of her daily life.

"But I have not given up hopes of making a trip around the world," Mrs. Haggett expressed the desire. "As soon as traveling is safe again, my sister and I will make this trip, and later, perhaps, write of my travel impressions."

Senator Lundeen to Speak On International Crisis

JOINTLY SPONSORED by the Debate Council and the Keep-America-Out-of-War Club, Senator Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite from Minnesota, will speak tomorrow night at 8:15 in Gov. 102.

Senator Lundeen will discuss America's role in the present international crisis. At the conclusion of his speech, he will answer questions from the floor.

Lisner Library Houses Novel Department

AS A RESULT of the opening of a "writing laboratory" in the basement of the Lisner Library yesterday, students may now have the benefit of expert advice in writing their papers.

Under the direction of Prof. Douglas Bement and primarily designed for those in composition courses, the English writing laboratory will be open to all students in the University who have writing to do in connection with any of their courses.

Sixteen English instructors will be on duty at various hours to give assistance to students in their writing problems. Tentative hours for the laboratory are 10 to 12 a.m. daily; 2 to 7 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and 1 to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The idea of a writing laboratory is comparatively new, having been tried previously only in the University of Minnesota and the University of Florida.

Students in the various freshman English classes will work in the laboratory at designated hours each week. The customary three hours of regular classwork has been cut to two hours, the other hour being given over to informal laboratory work.

The students will write in the laboratory for one or more hours each week. In announcing the new plan for increasing the ability of students in the use of English, Prof. Bement emphasized the point that those in all classes of the University will find it profitable to do their writing in the laboratory, where they will be free from distractions and where expert assistance will be available.

Prof. Bement said that although students in freshman English will occupy a portion of the laboratory at designated hours to work under their particular instructors, the laboratory will not be used for mass teaching or for the correction of specific errors in papers. The student will be required to bring an outline of a theme to the laboratory, where he will work on it under the general guidance of an instructor. The papers will be turned in and graded later.

The two wings of the laboratory will be used by members of the freshman English classes, and the center section of the room will be reserved for other students. However, said Prof. Bement, the laboratory is not to be considered as another reading room or study hall.

The best reference works on English are found in the laboratory and add to the advantage of using it in writing any paper. A schedule will be posted telling when particular instructors will be on duty.

Instead of small and weak,
You'd best retire to your shells
And spend your time asleep.
Your mothers dear have left you
All alone and young and free,
If you should hurt your little selves,
How awful it would be.
Let the past dictate the present,
You have gotten just a taste
Of our medicine for infants
Who do not know their place.
If you're wise—well, look at Hitler;
What he did to all the Jews.
My friends, that isn't half as bad
As what we'll do to you.

According To The Mailman

A Girl's Point of View...

Teacher: "What could be more sad than a man without a country?"
Dorothy: "Oh, definitely, a country without a man."

Anything Will Do...

Reilly (coming out of "1010"):
"Shay, call me a cab, will ya?"
Bystander: "My good man, I'm not a doorman, I am a naval officer."

Reilly: "Awright, then call me a boat, gotta get home."
—Morningside Collegian Report.

Very Well Indeed...

I said she'd made with me a hit—
Very well.
Perhaps I was a trifle lit—
Very well.
I told her that she was divine,
She let me hold her hand in mine,
In short, I handed out my line—
Very well.
I whispered softly in her ear—
Very well.
'Twas how appropriately, dear—
Very well.

I drew her snugly to my breast,
While she, not daring to protest,
Cleaned out the pockets of my vest—
Very well.
—Silver & Gold.

Cups and Saucers...

"The earth shook," said Brown, describing his experience in a New Zealand earthquake. "Cups and saucers flew all over the place."
"Great guns!" exclaimed Smith. "that reminds me, I forgot to post my wife's letter!"
—The Manhattan Quadrangle.

The Sissies...

Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall,
Humpty Dumpty had a great fall;
All the king's horses and all the king's men
Came riding by on side-saddles, the sissies!
—The Houstonian.

From the Navy...

Inspecting Officer: "Why didn't you shave this morning?"
Smart plebe: "I thought I did, but there were twelve of us using the same mirror this morning and I must have shaved some other guy."

CARBURETOR KAYWOODIE $4

In this Kaywoodie pipe, called the Carburetor Kaywoodie, a wonderfully sweet-smoking pipe has been improved by the application of a neat little principle of physics. When you take a puff at one of these Carburetor Kaywoodies, you automatically draw air in through a tiny inlet in the bottom of the bowl. That incoming air keeps the smoke cool, sweet and serene, no matter how bellicently you puff. In fact, the harder you puff, the more air comes in. That's why it's called a Carburetor Kaywoodie. Everybody knows that a Kaywoodie is the most socially-conscious of pipes—gets itself admitted everywhere. And the Kaywoodie Flavor is famous. But don't let us urge you—Shown above, No. 22.

Kayser Flays Small Group At Pep Rally

DEAN ELMER LOUIS KAYSER flayed a small crowd participating in the pep rally held on the campus Friday afternoon calling them "an inept phlegmatic group."

Addressing the group in a tone of scorn, he said that he could think of no group more inept than these, except those who did not attend the rally.

"Everything around you is looking up," he said. "The University is looking up—the buildings are looking up. We have a bully plant here; we have teachers to teach us; and we have leaders who are trying to lead us."

"But of what worth is this," he continued, "if students are nothing but 'credit snatchers' who sneak in under cover of darkness at 5 o'clock, and sneak out under cover of darkness at 7 o'clock, and after 120 semester hours of work, manage to sneak out a sheepskin from under the nose of President Marvin?"

"What I could say about those who are not here," he went on, "would lose me my position in the University, and I don't care to separate myself in that way as yet."

Dean Kayser spoke with scorn of those who would "back in the sunshine" but who wouldn't fight when there was fighting to be done.

Students who go through an entire university life with a poker face, he said, are wasting the four or five greatest years of their lives.

"The pep," he said, "must be in us; pep is not like smallpox that we can catch from those around us, but must be ingrained within us."

"When you go back to your classes, make it your duty to kick any of those inglorious people on either side of you who did not attend the rally," he added.

And as a final word to the audience, he concluded, "The team will fight; will you?"

After the short but fiery speech, some ten or more people requested a copy from Roy Lever, president of Rousers.

Phi Delta Gammas Hold Annual Fall Tea

PHI DELTA GAMMA, professional fraternity for graduates, held its annual fall tea for women enrolled in the Graduate School, from 4 to 7 o'clock on Oct. 18 and 19, in Columbian House. Dr. Margaret Sebree, national president, was in the receiving line, with the officers of Beta Chapter, who are: Elizabeth Fiedler, president; Florence Sifferd, vice-president; Gladys Anderson, corresponding secretary; Ruth Kemp, recording secretary; Marion Scott, treasurer; Florence Rice, registrar; Helen Thompson, editor; Mildred Green, historian; and Priscilla Holcombe, program chairman.

Active interest in the welfare of the University is evidenced by Phi Delta Gamma's devotion of the last year to the Women's Activities Building; the completion last year of a $100 contribution to the University Endowment Fund and a $5 gift each to the Food Drive and Symphony Orchestra. Plans are now under way for a means of adding another donation to the Women's Building Fund.

Prizes Await History Winners

THE HISTORY Department this week announced topics for the American History essay contest.

The Society of Colonial Dames of America will award a medal to the student who submits the best essay on one of the following topics: "Gov. Dunmore's War," "Spanish Efforts to Destroy the Virginia Colony," and "Libraries, Public and Private, of Colonial Maryland and Virginia."

For the prize of $15 offered by the Daughters of the American Revolution, the students may choose to write upon any of the following subjects: "The Conway Cabal," "Attempts to Secure Spanish Aid in the American Revolution," and "Entertainments and Relaxations of the Continental Army."

Essays submitted on any of the above topics should be from 5,000 to 7,500 words (about 20 double-spaced type-written pages) in length. They are to be written according to the Department of History style sheet, obtainable at the Student Club.

The prizes will be awarded by President Marvin at Class Night next June.

B.S.U. Council Meets Tomorrow

THE BAPTIST Student Union Council will meet tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Gov. 200. Details will be arranged for a joint meeting with the Student Christian Association at American University, scheduled for Saturday, November 4.

Student speakers at the American University meeting will discuss "Christianity in the Crisis," Haley Scurluck, local Baptist Student Union president, will talk on the need for "Christianity in the student's personal life." Refreshments and a social hour will follow the program. Transportation will be arranged for all students who wish to attend the meeting.

J. R. Brock, treasurer of the local Baptist Student Union, spoke Sunday evening at a special student service at the East Washington Heights Baptist Church. His subject was "Builders of a New World Community."

Dean Dreese Reports Gain in Summer Sessions Registration

Dean Mitchell Dreese

SUMMER SESSIONS at the University this year increased its registration by 10 per cent over the enrollment last year. Dr. Mitchell Dreese, dean of the University Summer Sessions, reported at a convention of the National Association of Deans of Summer Sessions last week-end. This gain is one of the largest made by American universities this year.

Dr. Dreese left Washington Thursday to attend the conference which was sponsored by New York University this year at the Hotel Commodore in New York City. The convention lasted two days, Friday and Saturday, during which deans of leading university summer schools reported on various phases of summer sessions.

The past University summer term was the first for Dr. Dreese in his position as Dean of Summer Sessions.

Faculty Busy During Summer

APPARENTLY THERE IS NO rest for the weary. Three members of the university's faculty extended their teaching duties into the summer, giving courses at universities and colleges in several parts of the United States.

Prof. Douglas Bement of the university's English Department had three jobs during the summer season. He lectured at the University of Iowa; gave three lectures at the University of Omaha, and also was head of a short story workshop at the Western Writers Conference, which was sponsored by the University of Colorado at Boulder, Colo.

Prof. Harold Friend Harding of the university's Public Speaking Department spent the summer as a visiting professor of English at the University of Missouri. He taught a course in Oral Interpretation and two graduate courses in Rhetorical Theory and Rhetorical Criticism.

Prof. A. Curtis Wilgus, associate professor of Hispanic American History, gave a course in pan-American history during summer session at the College of the City of New York.

Economic Society Organizes Tonight

ALL WOMEN students interested in joining a new economics sorority are asked to meet Anne Dienstl tonight in Columbian House at 8:15, or call her at Strong Hall, Metropolitan 5322.

The newly proposed organization, which has the approval of the Student Life Committee, will be formed to give women students an opportunity to discuss economic problems.

Contest

(Continued from Page 1) day, Nov. 5, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Cooperating with Marion Freehfer, president of the club, is Robert Sharp, Luther Club alumni secretary.

Under the direction of Dr. Robert Harmon, the Glee Club of the University will make special recordings of "Hail to the Buff" and the alma mater. These will be heard on all morning musical programs of local radio stations during Homecoming week.

The services of the Mortar Board members have been enlisted as guides for alumni.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 24, the Homecoming committee will meet with George Neville, chairman. Final reports will be given. New members on the committee have been announced as follows: Kenneth Romney, radio committee; Margaret Copeland, Susan McNeese and Betty Kleiman, ball committee; Harriet Wallis, publicity committee.

'Technological War Possible,' Says Kayser

"I SEE NO REASON WHY we cannot fight a technological war," said Dr. Elmer Louis Kayser, dean of University students, when he addressed Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, last week on European conflict.

Dr. Kayser's statement was made in reference to our keeping out of war and was based on the assumption that Russia will remain on the western front. However, there will be increased pressure toward civilian and neutral preparations for war, he added, and propaganda calculated to sway the present American attitude of "belligerence in favor of peace" may draw us into war.

Speaking of the present legislation of Congress, Dean Kayser expressed the belief that no legislative action at the present time will keep us out of war. Our future neutrality will rather depend on "the behavior of the belligerents and the executive intent," he stated.

He described the European conflict as "an ideal setting for an interesting war—one in which neither side loses any men to speak of, and in which each makes strategic moves, gradually moving toward bankruptcy."

Reviewing the background of the conflict, he observed that it might well have been avoided eight years ago when Japan was permitted to invade China, and again when Germany was allowed to go into the Rhineland. He also stated that Great Britain made a fatal error in permitting Germany to rearm up to 35 per cent of Britain's tonnage.

Looking ahead, Dean Kayser foresees that "Germany will pull together again." Discussing means of preventing this re-occurrence, he concluded that it might be best to "reconstitute the major German states"—in other words, to dismember her to such an extent that it will at least require a longer time to repeat World War II.

Famous Statue Of Washington Still Missing

THE CASE OF the missing statue of George Washington became more involved this week after it was definitely established that students of a rival university had not abducted the famous Houdon reproduction.

General Washington disappeared from his place last week only a short time before he was taken a new stand in the Library.

A new clue turned up shortly before press time, when a high University official intimated that Joseph Toomey, superintendent of construction for Charles H. Tompkins Co., might be able to throw some light on the whereabouts of the missing General.

Campus detectives set upon Mr. Toomey and finally extracted an admission that he knew something of the mystery. Presumably acting upon his constitutional rights, Mr. Toomey refused to elaborate on his statement. Since the use of the third degree is frowned upon in academic circles, he was temporarily saved from violence. An ultimatum was delivered that unless he revealed all that he knew, his personal safety could not be guaranteed.

University officials were expected to bring pressure to bear on Mr. Toomey in an effort to force him to cooperate in the campaign to rescue the General from his abductors.

"VAN" has been a Camel smoker for 18 years.

You can tell a lot about a cigarette by whether it burns fast or slowly. Camel cigarettes are noted for their long burning. In fact, they burned longer, slower than any other brand tested, in recent scientific studies. Van Campen Heilner, the famous American authority on wild game, points out an interesting angle to this. "Camels give more smoking because those choice tobaccos burn so slowly," he says. "And I think the way they burn is a good way to judge the quality of cigarettes too. I can smoke them steadily and they still taste smooth and cool, and my mouth feels fresh—and there's no throat irritation. Camels are mild, flavory. They give more pleasure per puff—and more puffs per pack." Get extra smoking per pack—topped off with the delicate taste of choice tobaccos. Smoke Camels!

Sweetheart Must Be Ideal Girl

By ROSE ELLEN DOBBYN
● WITHIN THE NEXT two weeks, students at the University will elect the girl to be crowned University Sweetheart at the Homecoming Ball on November 4.

This girl will be selected according to the various whims of the students as to the qualities which their ideal girl should and does possess. Among the qualities which the student body usually demands are personality, appearance, intelligence, and judging from the past two years, blonde hair. However, with the advent of Betty LaFarr, Joan Bennett and Vivian Leigh the brunettes have new hopes this year.

For prospective candidates, The Hatchet has made a survey of student opinion to determine those attributes which move the average voter towards selecting his ideal sweetheart. The girl possessing the most of these qualities will not only be remarkable, but will also probably be elected. Here is an idea of some of them:

According to Wayne Kniffin, former Freshman Director, current "Glamour Boy" and recognized authority on politics and women; also Record Holder for betting on Dark Horses which usually lose, believes that the University Sweetheart should "be as refreshing as spring air in a library, intelligent, but not ponderously so, ready and willing to enjoy everything new the University offers. She should have an idea what she is doing. The kind of girl that a fellow would like to take home—stick out his chest—and say, 'Well, folks, here SHE is.'"

Bill Gausman thinks that the University Sweetheart should "Have both beauty and brains—if there ever was such a creature."

Robert Bird, Teke pledge, holds out for a "clever conversationalist—pleasant, attractive personality." Deacon Penneck, S. A. E. pledge, who said he wasn't an authority on women—yet—but thinks the University Sweetheart should be of "medium height, sort of blonde, and kind of smart."

Johnny Strong, Phi Sig, likes a sophisticated type. "Not too sophisticated, though, for most college girls strive for sophistication too hard, and usually miss." It develops that all that is necessary for winning the title of University Sweetheart is beauty, brains, personality, fate, the support of one's friends, the caprices of the voters, an iron constitution to endure hours of smiling with a "Will you vote for me?" smile, and the courage to laugh at a distorted newspaper photograph with one's name under it positively identifying it as you.

The candidate possessing these qualities is bound to win or collapse in a strait jacket.

Frats Hold Many Elections

● THIS WEEK has been marked by numerous elections on part of both pledges and active members of fraternities on campus.

The pledges of Sigma Alpha Epsilon elected the following officers of their pledge class: Bill Jones, president; Ted Zuk, vice president; Sam Holland, parliamentarian; Don Britton, treasurer; and Buddy Sullivan, interfraternity pledge delegate.

Acacia Fraternity elected Keith Adamson, president; Frank Farkas, vice president; and Bob Dearth, interfraternity council delegate of active chapter.

Phi Mu pledges elected Kay Woodward president and Margaret West secretary of their pledge class.

W. A. A. Switches From Tea to Cokes

● A NOVEL "COKE" PARTY will be given by the Women's Athletic Association Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. in Columbian House, as part of its drive for members. All day women are invited.

The "coke" party is a novel variation from the customary "tea." Guests will be furnished cokes, popcorn, potato chips and corn candy instead of the usual sandwiches.

Freshmen and upperclassmen participating in sports particularly are invited. The membership drive will be climaxed after the close of sports by a fall banquet.

The members in charge of the party are Ruth Crouch, Marianna Trowbridge, Mabel Vierling and Kathryn Hershey.

Theta Taus Meet

● THETA TAU, professional engineering fraternity, will hold a meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Room D-204.

tion in the present Senate neutrality debate and then, for over an hour, answered questions of the Congress members.

"I am an isolationist and a realistic pacifist," said Senator Johnson. "I believe in pacifism to the point of an invasion of America or a violation of the Monroe Doctrine."

In reply to questions, the Senator stated that he believed there would be no decisive victory in the present European war; that the United States should maintain a navy one ship larger and an army one gun stronger than the forces of any possible threat to American democracy; and that if the war is drawn out for several years, Russia will be the ultimate victor.

● A PROFESSIONAL career in dancing has opened for Doris Gene Isbell, University sophomore, who this week began appearances with the Capitol Theater's Rhythm Rockets. Miss Isbell, who represented Delta Zeta sorority in last year's Cherry Tree beauty contest, has been a dancing student since she was a small child. She has studied under Bekefi, formerly a member of the Russian ballet, and under Virginia Barry and Marion Venable. In addition, she appeared in numerous amateur performances in Washington and in Philadelphia and Atlantic City. In tryouts for the Capitol's recent "Going Native" revue she attracted the attention of theater talent seekers but was under age and could not make regular professional appearances at that time. Miss Isbell will continue her University work in morning classes.

Neil Harris, Phi Mu, and sophomore at the University, and Caldwell Smith, also a sophomore, admire the silver loving cup awarded to the organization selling the most co-op books.

On the Campus With Agatha

● PLEDGE FORMALS HAVE BECOME quite the fashion these days with three sororities and two fraternities introducing their pledges to "campus society." Delta Zeta started the dances with one given in the beautiful Dragon Room of the Wardman Park Hotel Thursday.

The next step was taken by the two fraternities, Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, who both held formal house dances last Saturday night. The A. D. Pi and Pi Phi have chosen succeeding nights for their "introduction," the former picking tonight to "show off" their neophytes at Wardman Park, and the latter holding their dance at the Bethesda Women's Club tomorrow night.

If the men think that women's hats are all odd, they can start blaming themselves. Nancy Ould's gabardine for rainy weather is a man's sport hat. Go ahead and laugh; she still looks cute in it.

The limelight is also taken this week by traditional costume parties given by several fraternities to celebrate Halloween. Kappa Sig, Theta Delta Chi and Sig Ep are all honoring this time old custom on All Saints Eve.

Acacia, however, is being different on this night and is holding a "Harvest Moon" dance at the house. This dance is being given in honor of the pledges of the alumni. An additional pledge to Acacia is Frank Farkas.

Are our co-eds going back to the cradle for their styles? Have seen nothing but Sloppy Joe cardigans in baby colors. Won't somebody wear a sophisticated color in a sweater?

Phi Epsilon Pi went in for the unusual with a wiener roast held Saturday night. A series of small parties have also been held by the fraternity. They will celebrate after the Georgetown game with a radio dance at the fraternity house.

Kappa Delta honored the forty-second anniversary of the founding of their sorority at Virginia State Normal, Farmville, Va., in 1897, with a banquet at Wesley Hall Monday night.

Sigma Nu will entertain the pledges of Kappa, Chi O and Pi Phi at a tea at the house Sunday. Sigma Chi entertained Dr. Richard B. Castell and his fiancée, Miss Martha Ann King, at dinner at the house Sunday.

Hurray for Gail Koss! She knitted a sweater in two weeks, and she can wear it, too. Take a second look, girls; when she passes by in a yellow jiffy-knit, short-sleeved cardigan. That's it.

Sigma Kappa is holding open house Sunday, from 5-7 in Sorority Hall Annex to introduce the new pledges.

Zeta Tau Alpha held a luncheon at the Madrilon for their national inspector last Saturday night.

The engagement of Joan Antonette, Delta Zeta, was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton J. Antonette, of Peoria, Ill., this week. Joan will be married to Fletcher P. Reynolds, also of the University, in the spring.

Kitty Calver is wearing a perfumed necklace. Latest novelty. The necklace is made of eucalyptus seed pods; the lovely odor is due to the fragrant eucalyptus oil.

Ann Rutherford received 40,000 brothers Saturday night when she was pinned by the local chapter of Sigma Nu. William Kyne and Vic Turrou were in charge of arrangements for the party in honor of Miss Rutherford.

Roy Fitzsimmons, a member of Admiral Byrd's expedition to the Antarctic, was also present. Topics of conversation ranged from the South Polar regions to the tropic heights of Gray Gordon's Tie-toc rhythm.

A group of the Zetas were honored in the Neptune Room the night of the G. W. Citadel game, by Bert Granoff, a University graduate himself, and a Theta Delta Chi, singing "Hail to the Buff and Blue," celebrating the victory.

Three S. A. E.s, Willie Winter, Frank Monahan and Gorman McDonald, gave us all the lowdown when they relayed the information of how to be popular with the boys (the S. A. E.s anyhow) to the Girl Reserves of Washington. Their comments were printed in "Madame Chairman" by Suzanne of the Washington Post Sunday for the benefit of all. The boys even cut a banquet to do their good deed for the week.

Theta Delta Chi or Independent meeting? One wonders these days when you see such exponents of individualism as Frank Ford Burnet, Phil Young and Charlie Hamm. Reason—well Phil said he had seen the error of his ways.

And did you know that efficiency had reached a new high in The Hatchet office these days. Gone are the days when we came down here to enjoy ourselves. They even passed the attendance sheet Sunday, and no cuts allowed!

Phi Alpha Fraternity Honors Dr. Marvin At Anniversary Event

● DR. CLOYD HECK MARVIN was the guest of honor at the banquet given by Phi Alpha at the Wardman Park October 12 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the founding of the fraternity.

Three of the five founders of Phi Alpha, Dr. David Davis, Dr. Hyman Shapiro and Dr. Edward Lewis were able to attend the function. The two founders who were unable to attend were Mr. Reuben Schmidt and Dr. Maurice Hertzmark.

Phi Alpha was founded at the University 25 years ago due to the efforts of these five men. Jack Walinger, Herbert Benjamin, Daniel Fusfeld, Frank Gordon, Arthur Green, Melvin Jacobson, Sidney Kahanav, Jesse Pavis, Robert Rubin and David Silverman were pledged to the fraternity at Phi Alpha's annual fall dance Oct. 15.

Homecoming Ball Will Be At Mayflower

● ONE OF THE OLDEST traditions of the University will again be carried out this year when students and alumni attend the annual Homecoming Ball at the Mayflower Hotel Nov. 4.

Eleanor Sherbourne will release her crown as Sweetheart of the University at this time to the newly elected sweetheart. According to custom, the name of this girl will not be announced until midnight when she will be enthroned while the orchestra plays, appropriately, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." This year, for the first time, the ceremony will be broadcast over the radio.

The Homecoming Queen will be chosen from a group of girls selected by various organizations. Anyone upon presenting a student activity book, will be allowed to cast a vote for his favorite.

The ball will follow the long-awaited Homecoming game between the Colonials and the Clemson Tigers to be played at Griffith Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The Homecoming week-end of Nov. 2 to Nov. 5 will be formally inaugurated with fraternity and sorority "open house." "Old grade" will be royally entertained.

Again following tradition, the fraternities will brighten their houses with colorful and appropriate decorations. Competition will be keen to see who will take the title of "best decorator" for 1939. This position was held by Phi Sigma Kappa last year.

The committee in charge of arrangements is again headed by George Waddell Neville, L.L.B., 1929.

Other members of the committee include Bourke Floyd, assistant chairman; Lester A. Smith, secretary-treasurer; Lester Gates, city publicity; Mike Murray, fraternity house contest; Cap Gardner and Roy Lever, ball committee; Jay Samuel, ticket committee; John Dougherty and Hat Rogers, rally; Floyd Sparks, in charge of the broadcasting; Virginia Bickby and Jane Coulter, general members.

Business Is Picking Up

Victory Ball—
Hoya Game—
Homecoming—
Plenty to do these days!

From This Corner

By TOM McCALL

COLONIAL STUDENTS were quite disappointed when the freshmen game between Georgetown and the Colonials was changed from Friday evening to 2:30 in the afternoon at the request of Georgetown. Possibly the change was due to fears by Hoya authorities who may have feared an overly-enthusiastic demonstration of loyalty by the spectators might reflect on the big varsity game the following day. In any event, everyone fortunate enough to be able to see the game should go. Student activity books will be accepted for admission. The public will be charged 40 cents.

The Colonials have plenty to settle with Georgetown on the basis of past records. The Hoyas have scored 267 points to 25 for G.W. in ten games and have won nine and lost none. A scoreless tie was played in 1907. The Hoyas at present boast an undefeated record for the past two seasons, and haven't dropped one since their season finale with Maryland in 1937, which the Terps won, 12 to 2.

Several important things were brought out in the loyalty game with The Citadel. The team should have eliminated most of the bad football from its system. They showed their ability to go ahead on two quick thrusts after being outplayed the first half. The line showed its defensive power by its firm stand against an enemy scoring threat in the closing minutes of the game. The game gave the reserves a chance to get a little more experience and also showed the coaches what to work on for the next game. And they didn't want to show too much to Hoya scouts.

Dean Kayser gave the students a well-deserved tongue lashing because of their poor turnout at the pep rally last Friday afternoon. Let's hope a better attendance will mark our big rally against Georgetown next Friday at 4:45 p.m. Botchey Koch, line coach who gave such a fine speech at the Homecoming Rally last year, is one of the headline speakers. Don't miss this Baylor Bear's address.

Clemson is forging to the front as one of the great power elevens in the South this year. The Tigers have lost only one game, a 7-6 margin victory going to the strong Tulane team. Last season the Tigers clawed the Colonials, 27 to 0. Our prospects are no brighter this year against them even though the game will be our Homecoming celebration.

Predictions for Saturday's games. An aroused Colonial team will come from behind twice to finally win, 14 to 13. Bob Nowaskey's toe will provide the margin of victory. Maryland, 6; Florida, 13. Catholic University, 19; Miami, 6. American University will lose if they have a game scheduled.

West Virginia Upset As Foes Win 4, Lose 3

BUCKNELL DROPPED its first Homecoming game since 1929, last Saturday, when it bowed to Georgetown, 13 to 7, in a meeting between the two future opponents of the Colonials. The Bears won a hard-earned victory, scoring the winning touchdown after making a disputed first down on the Bison's 8-inch line. Tackle Joe Daniels blocked a Bucknell punt in the end zone for the first Georgetown score.

West Virginia Mountaineers lost their first game to Washington and Lee in 24 years when they were edged out by the Generals 9 to 0. Pres Brown's 70-yard run provided the only touchdown of the game.

Banks McEaden, star Clemson halfback, led the Tigers to a 27-0 victory over South Carolina last Thursday. The Tigers rolled up 337 yards rushing and passing, and made 22 first downs as they marched to an easy victory.

Oklahoma, one of the nation's undefeated teams, routed Kansas, future Colonial opponent, 27 to 7, in a Big Six Conference game. The Jayhawkers opened up with a fourth quarter passing attack that netted their only touchdown.

Butler's Bulldogs remained undefeated as they crushed DePaul, 33 to 0. It marked the Bulldogs' fifth straight win of the year. Davis-Elkins defeated Morris Harvey, 26 to 6, in a Friday night game.

University Students Win Blue Ribbons In Horse Show

TWO MEMBERS of the Riding Club won ribbons at the National Capital Park Horse Show which was held Sunday at the Equitation Field in Rock Creek Park.

Jane Marshall placed first in the Bridle Path Hack, and Catherine Stewart took fourth position in the same event. In addition, several other members of the club took part in the show.

Plans for the Riding Club's contribution to the Homecoming festivities, a horse show, were virtually completed at a meeting of the club last Wednesday.

The Horse Show will be held on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 4, at the Equitation Field. Miss Stewart, president of the Riding Club, heads the committee in charge of the arrangements for the show.

Twenty-two members of the club participated in a morning ride last Friday—a weekly feature of the Riding Club this semester. Part of the group rode at Bradley Farms and the remainder of the party rode at the Potomac Riding Stable.

On Thursday, the Riding Club is planning a moonlight ride. Members will meet at 7 p.m. in front of Building D. Refreshments will be served.

Library Alumni Meet
THE UNIVERSITY Library Science Alumni Association will meet Tuesday, October 31, in Columbian House. Miss Emma M. Thom, bibliographer of the United States Geological Survey, will speak.

Buff-Hoya Freshmen Tangle at Stadium Friday Afternoon

Buff Seeks Upset Victory Over Georgetown

Indifferent Colonial Team Tops Citadel

By BILL UMSTEAD

GEORGE WASHINGTON exhibited a team last Friday night that played both good and bad football. After recovering from a first half attack of "fumblyitis" the Buff put across two third period touchdowns in rapid succession to eke out a 13-7 victory over the Citadel at Griffith Stadium before a crowd of 6,000.

In the first half the team showed a lack of coordination, and ability to fumble at crucial moments and as a result trailed the Citadel 7-0 at the end of the half. The Bulldogs scored in the first quarter on a 32-yard pass from Halfback Graham Edwards to End Bob David.

Batson Scores on 60-yard Run

On the first play of the second half Ken Batson, with excellent blocking, broke through right tackle and dashed 60 yards for the first Buff score. Lud Urlick's try for the extra point was low and the Colonials trailed 6-7. A few minutes later Mike Monchovich, sophomore center, snatched a Citadel fumble out of the air and galloped 42 yards for the Colonials' second touchdown. Bob Nowaskey converted the extra point on a placekick.

The defensive work of Murphy Booth and the offensive play of Ken Batson were the highlights of the game. Booth repeatedly threw Citadel ball carriers for losses, and ended a last-minute Cadet scoring threat with a pass interception. Batson, besides making the longest run of the game, gained nearly every time he carried the ball. Bob Nowaskey and Sam Babich were standouts both on offense and defense. Nowaskey made several good gains on end-around plays and threw Citadel passers for long losses more than once, while Babich caught two passes and played a good defensive game in the backfield.

Booth Is Defensive Star

Coach Reinhardt indicated that he was pleased with the play of Dan Douglas and John Picco, ends. Murphy Booth played a "helluva" game as well as Sam Babich and Bob Nowaskey. He said he was trying to give the reserves more experience by letting them play the first half of the game.

A last-minute scoring threat by The Citadel was halted by the Colonials in a brilliant goal line stand. Two passes ruled complete because of interference by Buff backs had given the Cadets the ball on the Buff 19-yard line, but a pass interception by Booth ended the danger.

Citadel Stops Colonial Threat

In the fourth quarter the Colonials lost a scoring opportunity because of a pass interception. After a lateral from Eddie Wilamoski to Sunny Jones had carried the ball to the 7-yard line the Colonials lost the ball as a second down pass was intercepted by the Cadets in the end zone for an automatic touchdown.

Just as in the Butler game, the Colonials led in nearly every department of play and showed a decided lack of scoring punch. They rolled up 15 first downs to 6 for The Citadel; gained 201 yards rushing while they held their opponents to only 7 yards, and although they were out-passed by the Bulldogs the Colonials intercepted 2 enemy passes.

Although Coach Reinhardt was supposed to be playing the team under wraps for the Georgetown game next Saturday, he was forced to withdraw the starting second-stringers and send his first team to the game.

Sports Shorts

Dear Lou: When Sadie Hawkins Day rolls 'round you'd better hide away in some dark corner, unless you want to be snatched up pronto. You have a most ardent admirer who can hardly wait for the chance to "P.S." That's what you get for being so beautiful.

The spectators surely had to do some strenuous ogling to keep track of the dark football that was used in the game Friday night.

We still maintain that Sam Babich is a great end.

It appears as though G.W. will have its Victory Ball whether or not. Great stuff, holding the celebration on the eve of the game when the football heroes themselves are supposed to stay home and go to bed early. I guess they don't count; they're only the boys who're expected to bring home the victory. I don't know whose brainchild the idea is, but it surely takes the funniness out of it.

One bright spot in Friday night's game is the consolation of knowing that the Georgetown scouts didn't see much either.

Prediction for the Georgetown game: Tighten up on pass defense, play safe for quick kicks, stop Ghecas, and it'll be a great day for G.W.—Eleanor Isbell.

Interfraternity Dance Postponed

THE INTERFRATERNITY tea dance, originally scheduled for November 5 has been postponed to November 19. The Student Council informed the Interfraternity Council that the former date was closed.

Star In Citadel Game

KEN BATSON

MURPHY BOOTH

TWO COLONIAL HALFBACKS who starred against The Citadel. Ken Batson scored first Buff touchdown on sensational 60-yard run in third quarter. Murphy Booth, fine blocking back, was outstanding of defense, making many tackles and intercepting two Citadel passes.

Students, Scribes Favor Georgetown to Trim Buff

STUDENT OPTIMISM seems to be running very "high" as indicated by the following predictions on the score of the Georgetown-Georgetown football game next Saturday afternoon. (Note to the football players: Go ahead and make liars out of most of them, won't chat.)

"HONEST JOHN" DAUGHERTY, President, Student Council. "I don't like to judge such an inferior team as Georgetown. I hope Reinhardt uses his fifth team to keep the score down."

ELMER L. KAYSER, Dean of University Students. "G. W. 20, Georgetown 13. I am one of the persons alive that saw the game against Georgetown in 1916. I remember that we scored first."

BILL DIMMER, Jr., Washington Star Sports Writer. "I think the Hoyas got you this time. It may be close. Georgetown 13-7."

ELEANOR SIEBURN, University Sweetheart. "I think Georgetown will probably beat us by more than 12 points."

CHARLES EARL WALLACE, Junior College. "It looks like G. W. 6-0 to me. Our team hasn't had a chance to display our real power yet. But just wait until Reinhardt opens his bag of tricks next Saturday. I'm certain the customers will see goings-on they haven't seen before."

ROY LEVER, President of Gate and Key. "14-13 in favor of the Colonials. It will be plenty close, with the underdog to win a victory over a highly favored and publicized Georgetown team."

ANN FETERSON, sophomore. "G. W. will win 50-0. Wanna bet?"

EDDIE AMENDOLA, basketball player. The G. W. underdogs will win 13-12."

MARIE MCNEESE, graduate student. "Everybody is saying that Georgetown is going to win by two touchdowns. But I believe that we will get our school spirit up and beat them after all."

LOUIS HICKS, Student Club employee. Georgetown over G. W. by 7 to 10 points."

MARION BULLOCK, new student. "I think that the score will be 25-13 in favor of Georgetown."

RANDY GARDNER, Student Council member. "I'm predicting a scoreless tie—we hope!"

PAT LAWRENCE, sophomore. "It certainly would be wonderful if we did win." (She wouldn't predict any score.)

JOHN STONG, Hatchet Sports Writer. "Everytime somebody offers me 7 points, I'm taking it. The freshmen will win over the Hoya frosh in a walk."

JACK MUNNELL, Washington Post Sports Writer. "I think that Georgetown looks at least three touchdowns better, but the G. W. mental confusers will hold the score down. Georgetown 14-7. The Colonials are a lot better club than they showed against Citadel, and are due to click soon."

FRANK MANN, Hatchet Sports Writer. "Even though a loyal student of G. W. U., I'm afraid that Georgetown has such a fine team that we won't be able to beat them by more than one touchdown."

Faculty Victorious At Engineers' Mixer

THE PROGRAM of the annual Engineers' Mixer, held in the Hall of Government last week, featured a "Professor Quiz" contest between students and faculty, which closed with a close decision for the faculty. Professors Ames, Bush and Johnson represented the winners, and Chew, Randall and Weist championed the student cause.

Short talks were given by faculty members, urging all students to participate in the engineering societies. August Mard spoke for the A. S. C. E.; Charles Kurz for the A. S. E. E.; Joe Hartman for the A. S. M. E.; Ira Jones for Theta Tau; and Tom Johnston for Sigma Tau.

Colonial-Hoya Frosh Tangle Next Friday

By FRANK MANN

TWO UNDEFEATED and untied elevens will provide the entertainment at Mr. Griffith's sports dispensary next Friday afternoon when the Colonial and Hoya frosh football teams meet to decide the mythical District frosh title. The game will start at 2:30, and students of both schools will be admitted on presentation of their athletic books. Admission to the public will be 40 cents.

While the varsity elevens of both schools have been playing along for some three or four weeks with varying success, the respective freshman teams, playing in the reflected glory of their seniors, have been showing some great football to the few spectators interested enough to attend the games.

Hoyas Are No Pushover

The Hoya team, coached by "Hap" Hardell, long one of the most successful high school coaches in the city, boasts a well-balanced team, skilled in the fundamentals of the game. In addition, the Hoyas are fortunate in having a great climax runner in Kull, who led the Hilltoppers in their recent 39-6 victory over William and Mary of Norfolk.

Our own little Colonials, under the guidance of Ray Hanken, who starred as end for the New York Giants after his graduation from the University, are pointing for this game, and if past performances are any indication, the Buffmen will be hard to beat. The Colonials feature a tight defense, with scoring punch provided by such speedy backs as Gudmundson and Pinnow. Pinnow's passing arm has been responsible for a good many Buff scores in the three games won this year.

Yearlings Win Third Straight; Whip Marines

IN A HARD-FOUGHT game, played at the Quantico Marine Base last Wednesday, George Washington's Freshman football squad rolled up its third straight victory with a 14-7 score. The game with the Marines was one of two games scheduled for last week. The fray with Devitt Prep was cancelled at the request of Devitt.

Colorful playing on the part of Don Pinnow, Harry Soriel and Dan Snyder were contributing factors to the victory. Pinnow, it might be added, has played bang-up football in all his previous games.

Both scores for the Buff and Blue came in the form of long passes from Pinnow to Soriel. Brilliant toe-work on the part of Snyder counted for the two extra points, making Snyder's string of conversions 8 to 8 straight.

The current Buff line is well rounded with Nowaskey, Keahy, and Jones leading the pack. Botchey feels that the loss of John Kiskoski takes some of the fire and hustle away that the fleet junior guard supplied.

During his coaching career Botchey had the honor of owning the most disreputable hat on the campus. A floppy, shapeless creation of grey felt, it was looked upon with affection by its proud possessor. When he returned to his duties this fall Botchey found that his hat had either been stolen or thrown away and he had to relinquish his claim to the most disreputable hat to head coach Reinhardt. The loss of this hat is Koch's only regret during his years of coaching at the University.

Kappa Sigs Win, K. A. Second in Fraternity Golf Tournament

LEADING THEIR nearest competitors by 12 strokes, the Kappa Sigs won the Interfraternity golf tournament at the National Women's Golf and Country Club Sunday afternoon. The Kappa Sigs score of 338 easily beat Kappa Alpha's 350 and Sigma Chi's 352. Bud Pappert and Bill Rochelle shot 80's, while Bill Hurd and Chick Collett shot an 81 and a 97, respectively. The scores were low in spite of a strong wind that swept across the course all afternoon.

Sigma Chi's James Guinness shot a remarkable 71 to win the medalist honors while Charles Hurd of Kappa Alpha and Late Franklin of Sigma Alpha Epsilon both shot 79's to tie for the runner-up position.

COLONIAL AREERS

By VAUGHN KING

BARTON "BOTCHEY" KOCH, line coach for the Colonial football team, is next in line for recognition. Born and raised in Temple, Texas, Botchey began his football career early in his scholastic life. After playing three years on his high school team in Temple he entered Baylor University, where he soon began to attract state-wide attention as an outstanding player in the Bear line. As a senior his play at the guard position was so outstanding that he became the first man in the Southwest Conference to be chosen on all of the various All-American teams.

BOTCHEY KOCH

Botchey returned to Baylor in 1931 as line coach and turned out stonewall lines for five years. In the spring of 1936 he arrived in Washington to take over his new duties as coach of the Colonial line. The former Bear guard is known as one of the best line coaches in the country, and often gets into a scrimmage himself to teach his players the correct way to block and tackle. Genial and well liked by coaches and players alike he is always a popular man both on and off the gridiron.

Developed Many Stars

During his coaching career Botchey has turned out many fine linemen, but his most outstanding are Ray Hanken, former Colonial and New York Giant end and present freshman coach; "Ox" Parry, All-American mention from Baylor and present tackle for the New York Giants; and a boy named Petty who was an All-Southwestern end with Baylor. After this year Bob Nowaskey will probably be added to this list of outstanding men.

The current Buff line is well rounded with Nowaskey, Keahy, and Jones leading the pack. Botchey feels that the loss of John Kiskoski takes some of the fire and hustle away that the fleet junior guard supplied.

During his coaching career Botchey had the honor of owning the most disreputable hat on the campus. A floppy, shapeless creation of grey felt, it was looked upon with affection by its proud possessor. When he returned to his duties this fall Botchey found that his hat had either been stolen or thrown away and he had to relinquish his claim to the most disreputable hat to head coach Reinhardt. The loss of this hat is Koch's only regret during his years of coaching at the University.

Rousers Will Stamp More Activity Books

ACTIVITY BOOKS will be stamped for admission to the reserved cheering section by Rousers at a desk in the Student Club Thursday and Friday of this week, in order to afford those who neglected bringing their books in last week an opportunity to join the cheering section for future games.

neither revealing much to watchful scouts, as they played straight football. Both rivals appeared sluggish and seemed to be looking ahead for Saturday's game instead of concentrating on the current opposition.

Hoya Line Outweighs Colonials

Georgetown has the edge on paper in all departments, except possibly passing. The Hilltopper forward wall is heavy, big and fast and will have a ten-pound-per-man edge on the Buff line. They have two of the best punters in the East, and have eight good backs, all of the same high caliber of Lou Ghecas. Joe McFadden, quarterback, and Julius Koshik, halfbacks, will handle the punting duties for the Blue and Gray, and according to Coach Reinhardt, these two boys are among the best in the East.

The Hoya probable starting backfield will be McFadden or Jim Castiglia, quarterback; Lou Ghecas and Julius Koshik, halfbacks, and Myron Darmohray, fullback. The line positions will probably be filled by Mike Kopicik, Francis Daly or John Lascari, ends; Earl Fullilove, Bill Nealon or Joe Daniels, tackles; Mark Ostinato and August Lio, guards, and Jim Reichy or Allen Matzura at center.

Buff Will Pull No Punches

The Reinhardtmen have a full bag of new tricks, loaded with dynamite and ready to be exploded against the Hilltoppers. Featuring the Colonial offense are the sensational end-around plays, which brings into action Big Bob Nowaskey's ball carrying ability. Dan Douglas, Frank August and John Picco, ends, have also handled this assignment, with satisfactory results.

Billy Richardson and Eddie Wilamoski are expected to open up with a heavy aerial bombardment, with Nowaskey and Sam Babich ready to snare any passes within reach. Batson and Richardson will do most of the punting, with Nowaskey relied on to give the point after touchdown punch when needed.

Colonials Hold Skull Practice

The Colonials went through a little skull practice Sunday morning, after the coaches' return from Lew-Isburg, Pa. where they scored the 13-to-7 Hoya victory over Bucknell. Botchey Koch, line coach, will keep his boys working on fundamentals during the week and Reinhardt will try to smooth out the rough edges shown by the backs in The Citadel game.

Possessing much latent power in swift running backs, the Colonials have Walt Fedora and Ken Batson, short running backs; Billy Richardson and Lud Urlick, powerful line smashers; Murphy Booth and Sam Babich, husky blockers and capable ball carriers, as well as Eddie Wilamoski, Walter Welc, Fred Sartore, Paul Nugent, Tom Grady, Art Nowaskey and Ralph Zelasko.

On the line the Buff warriors will be well fortified with Bob Nowaskey, Frank August, John Picco and Dan Douglas, ends; Duce Keahy, Tony Barauskas and Sunny Jones, tackles; Tim Sweet, Stanley Zlobro and Dean Reese, guards; Mike Monchovich and Jimmy Jay, at center. George Lentz, trainer, said that all the players were in good shape and suffered no serious injuries in Friday night's game.

Prize Contest For Seniors Is Announced

SENIORS IN COLUMBIAN College who expect to compete in the annual Davis Prize Speaking Contest for seniors Nov. 21, must submit their names and speech topics to Prof. Harold F. Harding, Building D, by Nov. 1, it was announced last week.

The contest is open to all students of senior standing in the Columbian College. Orations are limited to 10 minutes in length and must deal with current questions in public affairs.

The Davis Prize contest, which was founded 92 years ago, has the distinction of being the oldest contest sponsored at this University. In 1847 the Hon. Isaac Davis of Massachusetts directed that prizes of $25, $10 and $5 be distributed annually to such members of the senior class as shall have made the greatest progress in elocution since their connection with the college. The prizes are awarded each year on Class Night in June.

Last year Simon Rottenberg, Scott Kirkpatrick and Phoebe Jane Beall were awarded first, second and third prizes in the 91st annual Davis Prize contest held in November. Mr. Rottenberg described the unparalleled exploitation of Mexican wealth by outside interests in his prize winning speech on "Who Owns Mexico." Mr. Kirkpatrick's subject was "Personal Integrity" and Miss Beall spoke on the topic, "Is Medical Economics Abreast with Medical Science?"

Miss Helen Newman, librarian of the Law School; Mr. W. R. O'Connell, winner of the contest in 1932, and Col. O. R. McGilre, general counsel of the General Accounting Office, were judges of last year's contest.

Among the previous winners of the Davis contest are Theodore Noyes, editor and publisher of the Evening Star; Champ Clark, Jr., United States Senator; Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, and Dean William C. VanVleck.

Dance

Hatchet Sunday.

He further stated that this dance marks a distinct change in the relations of the two schools in regard to its athletic and social activities; that 16 years ago the football games were marked by fights and bitter enmity, but this ball promises to cement the relations between the two schools.

Both Georgetown and George Washington cheer leaders will be on hand at the dance, and members of the two teams have been invited to be present. Coach Bill Reinhardt of George Washington and Jack Hagerty of Georgetown have been asked to make brief talks on prospects for the game for the following afternoon.

The first gridiron encounter between the two schools since 1923 has aroused great interest and enthusiasm among student and alumni of both institutions. This renewal of the city's oldest football rivalry has also brought forth numerous reminiscences of early games in the series, which dates back to 1890.

A crowd of more than 20,000 will attend the game to cheer the Hoyas and the Colonials.

"Georgetown-George Washington Football Night" will be celebrated this Friday evening at the Capitol Theater following the last stage show. Members of both football squads will be present and heroes of past G.W.-Georgetown games will be introduced. The cheers and songs of both universities will be led by their respective cheer leaders.

is king. The old table has been recushioned and recovered and is even more popular than the gift table we were all bragging about in the spring. The new cues provide fewer opportunities for "allies" for dub shots, but the gang shows much ingenuity inventing new excuses. Putting in Alonzo as chairman of the house committee has certainly done wonders for the pool room equipment. In fact, the noisy ping-pong on the second floor are showing some signs of jealousy.

Yet in spite of the new equipment we must confess that the quality of the shooting isn't what it might be. Without you, our faithful pool mentor, many of the fine points of the game are wasted, for no one among the onlookers is really qualified to speak with authority. Some of the boys are even trying to claim credit for fourth-cushion billiards and bottles; something they wouldn't have dared to try and get away with in your presence. But we mustn't be hard on them, for on the whole they are still trying to carry on in the Holmes' tradition.

We unite in sending you our very best wishes. We shall try to keep you informed from time to time concerning the latest pool room scandal.

Sincerely yours,
The Pool Room Gang.

other officials, left under a flag of truce, and reached Koenigsburg, Germany, after a hazardous trip across Poland by motor caravan. Mr. Blake received the bachelor of arts degree in Government in 1933.

Thomas R. Henry, who had gone to England, to report the proceedings of a scientific congress for the Washington Evening Star, has remained in Europe as a special war correspondent. Mr. Henry's dispatches from London, from Belgium and other neutral countries, reveal vividly the war's effect on community life. Mr. Henry received his master of arts degree in 1930.

Among other graduates of the University, in the warring countries serving in official capacities, are Hans Wilhelm Ferdinand Anderson, an official of the German Foreign Office in Berlin. Mr. Anderson received his bachelor of arts degree in 1912; Wilbur Kehniger, American consul at Hamburg, who received his bachelor of law degree in 1904; Herve Joseph L'Heureux, American consul at Stuttgart, and Mrs. L'Heureux (Jeanette Frances Blum, received the bachelor of arts degree in 1923, and the master of arts degree in 1924), received the bachelor of arts degree in 1925; Julius C. Jensen, American vice-consul at Stuttgart; Bogert Daniel Murphy, first secretary of the American Embassy in Paris, received his bachelor of law degree in 1920, and his master of law degree in 1928; Robert Dudley Longyear, American consul at Marseille, received his bachelor of law degree in 1931; Leslie A. Davis, American consul-general at Glasgow, received his bachelor of law degree in 1904; David Edward Finley, Jr., honorary counselor of the American Embassy at London.

Cue and Curtain Suggests Combined Show-Dance Parties

CUE AND CURTAIN, opening the University drama season on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 with three one-act plays, requests that any organization planning a social function for Halloween plan the party for after the show in order not to interfere with attendance at the plays.

Combined show-dance parties will meet with the full cooperation of the business staff in providing blocks of seats for individual groups. Costumes will be entirely in order at the theater.

Tickets are available from Allen Dewey, business manager or any member of Cue and Curtain.

A Hint--Study In Bed; Good Grades May Result

New York City--(ACP)--That's the conclusion of Columbia University's instructor in Irish culture, Collins Healy, after a long and detailed study of Irish methods of study, which revealed that the students of the Emerald Isle did their studying while in a lying, reclining or horizontal posture.

"The vision of schools equipped with reclining and sleeping accommodations may seem fantastic and far removed from what we currently consider good educational practice, but psychological investigations accord the horizontal posture during study as sound," Mr. Healy says.

per tomorrow. Although they didn't care to give out any of their letter as yet, they did say that some of the members of the squad have been seriously considering taking up the offer of getting some points from our coaches on our plays. And as to their yelling ability, they merely pointed to the fact that Syracuse said they had never had such a noisy crowd and that Sunbury, but they seem to get done quickly in the process of rebuilding the town.

A large delegation are planning to attend the Victory Ball Friday night; but a delegation expects to appear at the University in autos and a siren in a "fun-loving" expedition some time before then. There will, however, be no painting of buildings and the like. Dwyer added, The Hoya, he said, will run an editorial in its Wednesday edition against any fighting or damaging of property before or after the game.

The team will be getting some sleep the night of the Victory Ball; but a strong group of "play-boys" will be there, headed by the "glamorous boy," John Smith, ready to show the girls a good time.

pect of five dates at once. Too bad she isn't a student at G. W."

When asked where she found time to do her studies, get her hair fixed and her clothes selected, Miss Rutherford replied, "That's an interesting question--I really don't, but they seem to get done anyway."

Then, while she hurried downstairs to "go on," her mother remarked that Ann had developed the habit of budgeting her time so as to include a very busy schedule both at home and on the road. In fact, she said, Ann literally runs the Rutherford home. One minor exception is keeping Mary, the mother, from making them all top off by serving rich foods. She once said, "Mary, if we lose our figures you lose your job."

Her day begins at a quarter to six, because she must be in make-up and on the set at nine, or sometimes 8:30 in the morning, but she relaxes by knitting during spare moments on the set.

Mrs. Rutherford also said that Ann had as her goal the Janet Gaynor type of role, and that she was particularly glad that Ann had been able to have superior coaching so that she was able to do her work without affectation. She has been coached by Sammy Kayser, of Metro, who has taught many noted stars, including Miss Gaynor and Frederic March. Mrs. Rutherford hopes that Ann's schedule for the next few months will enable her to have one full day in at school, but doubts it.

Their tour has New York as its next scheduled stop, where they will be for two days of appearances and then, about a week to enjoy themselves before returning to Hollywood.

It will be Ann's first trip to New York, her mother said, and "Ann is going to put on low-heeled shoes and go about informally, visiting museums, art galleries and all sorts of places few other people usually go, and will have the time of her life. She had planned to visit Europe this month, but instead will see America first."

At a ceremony in the Sigma Nu fraternity house Saturday night the badge of sisterhood was pinned on this starlet whom the boys of Sigma Nu unanimously voted their sweetheart.

Bill Kyne, commander of the Washington and "mother" chapter of this national fraternity, and Victor Turrou, divided the task of inducing Andy Hardy's girl friend into the brotherhood. Both are students at the University, the latter a son of the nationally known former G man, Leon Turrou.

Fifty members were present at a dinner in honor of this occasion. In accepting the honor Miss Rutherford said that she couldn't wait to meet the first girl wearing a Sigma Chi badge and flaunt the Sigma Nu standard.

Tau Sigma Rho, Cue & Curtain Offer Prizes

TWO SILVER CUPS will be presented at Class Night exercises in June to the actor giving the best performance of the year and to the member doing the most constructive work for Cue and Curtain. It was announced last week. The awards are being jointly sponsored by Tau Sigma Rho and Cue and Curtain.

Judges for the acting award are Prof. Courtland Baker, Richard L. Coe, assistant drama critic of The Post, and Flora B. Gill, assistant critic of the Times-Herald.

Floyd Sparks, director of Cue and Curtain, will judge the award for the most outstanding service. The awards are being presented for the first time this year.

In an additional announcement Cue and Curtain named the judges for the one-act playwriting contest. The judging committee is headed by Prof. Douglas Bement and includes Dr. DeWitt Croissant, and Prof. Ernest Shepard.

In a statement to The Hatchet Prof. Bement said that he believed this contest was a significant step in achieving interest in writing. He added that University students have always done well in short story writing and other creative writing contests.

W.S.G.A. Gives Noon-Time Dance Free To Members

FREE DANCING from 12 'til 2 will be sponsored by the W. S. G. A. tomorrow afternoon for members and friends in the recreation room adjoining Sorority Hall. The only requirement for admission is "swinging and away" to the strains of a nickelodeon will be for the W. S. G. A. members to show their membership cards.

The purpose of having the "first one free" is so that student acceptance of the idea may be observed and acted upon. Should the plan prove successful, the noon-time dancing will continue with a charge of not more than five or ten cents. The proceeds from the dances will go toward the Women's Activities Building Campaign.

This will be a novel and beneficial idea for the student and the University; for not only will it aid the W. S. G. A. to support the building campaign, but it will provide an opportunity for both the upper and lower classes to meet and mix, according to the sponsors.

General Fries Speaks To Chemists

MAJOR GENERAL AMOS A. FRIES, U. S. A., Ret., war-time Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, spoke last week at a shaker held by Alpha Chi Chapter of Alpha Chi Sigma, national professional chemical fraternity.

Professors Mackall, Van Evera, Naeser, and Hoffman, as well as student members and twelve rushees, heard General Fries talk on his experiences in setting up the newly organized Chemical Warfare Service in France, and on the peculiar problems encountered in employing or combatting gases of military value.

Speech Association To Be Organized

TEACHERS OF SPEECH from the District and three nearby states will discuss plans formulated by Professor Willard H. Yeager and Professor Harold F. Harding for the organization of a Speech Association for teachers of speech at an "exploratory" meeting in Columbian House November 4.

Professor Yeager, president of Eastern Association of Teachers of Speech, will discuss "The Value and Possibilities for the Organization of a Local Group."

Phi Alpha Delta

June 5, 1920.

There are approximately 50 chapters of Phi Alpha Delta in approved law schools throughout the country. The fraternity was founded in 1902.

Reverend Harris Will Speak At Chapel

THE REVEREND Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the Foundry Methodist Church, will be guest speaker at the Chapel services next Friday in Columbian House.

Dr. Harris, a native of Worcestershire, England, came to Washington from New York City in 1924, a year after receiving his Doctorate in Divinity at Dickinson College. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Theta, and Alpha Chi Rho fraternities, and a member of the Abraham Lincoln Literary Club. He is past president of the Washington Federation of Churches.

For several summers Dr. Harris has served as exchange preacher to England. He is also the author of several books, among them "The

Tobacco...opens Doors to Fields where People Live, Work & Achieve

Today there are about 1,000,000 cigar stores, drug stores, country and grocery stores where you can buy cigarettes in the United States. These retailers, and the jobbers who serve them, have built up a service of courtesy and convenience unmatched by any other industry catering to the American public's pleasure.

THERE ARE ANOTHER MILLION people who are engaged directly or indirectly in the transportation of cigarettes to every town, hamlet and crossroads.

IT IS ESTIMATED that there are 1,602,000 tobacco farmers raising tobacco in 20 out of the 48 states. Good tobacco is one of the hardest crops to raise and bring to market, requiring great skill and patience from seed-bed planting to harvesting and curing. The modern tobacco farmer has done well the job of constantly improving the quality of his product.

THE AVERAGE LENGTH of service of the 13,230 people working in the Chesterfield factories, storage houses, leaf-handling and redrying plants is over 10 years. This means that every step in the making of Chesterfields, regardless of how small, is handled by people who have had 10 years of experience and ability in knowing their jobs.

TRULY TOBACCO OPENS DOORS to fields where people live, work and achieve, and Chesterfield takes pride in its ever increasing part in this great industry that is devoted entirely to the pleasure of the American public.

TO SMOKERS, Chesterfield Cigarettes have always said, and now repeat, that in no other cigarette made can you find the same degree of real mildness and good taste, or the same high quality of properly cured and aged tobaccos. Chesterfield Cigarettes are made with one purpose only...to give smokers everywhere the Milder, Better-Tasting Smoking Pleasure they want. You can't buy a better cigarette.
